

Sinclair Broadcasting should not be allowed to use the public airwaves to spread biased political "documentaries." These airwaves belong to the American public not corporate interests and the citizens interests should be protected above those of corporations. Corporations forcing large numbers of stations to broadcast one-sided self serving political attacks certainly does not serve this goal.

This situation serves to highlight the problems inherent in corporations owning large numbers of television stations, radio stations, and newspapers. I urge the FCC to hold corporations like Sinclair accountable for their actions by refusing license renewals and by tightening ownership rules in general.

Thank you.
